The Alameda Education Foundation (AEF) is made up of parents, educators, business leaders and members of the community. A vital force in the community since 1982, AEF supports educational excellence in Alameda public schools by providing funds, materials, volunteer resources and program coordination to supplement the opportunities available in our schools. AEF supports a variety of programs including academics, athletics, music, drama, sports, science, technology and much more for thousands of Alameda school children. AEF believes thriving schools are essential for a strong community and a promising future.

From dance to drama, science to chess, AEF offers hundreds of after school Enrichment classes at Alameda elementary and middle schools. Enrichment Camps offer fun creative and academic programs during school breaks, staff development days and summers. Look for high school programs in the upcoming school year!

AEF runs the only after school year round sports program open to all Alameda public middle school students. Over 400 students compete in volleyball, basketball and track & field and the program has a strong academic tie-in.

AEF’s Adopt A Classroom program provides $500 donations directly to teachers and program leaders who use the funds to best meet the needs of their particular students. AEF supports new teachers with school supply gift cards. Our Power Up 4 Learning program supports classroom technology needs. We coordinate a summer School Supply Drive for low-income students and each spring we honor our schools, teachers and volunteers with a Salute to Education celebration.

AEF generates thousands of dollars each year to support music, art, and performing arts programs in all Alameda public schools. Funds support instrument repair and replacement, sheet music purchases, drama production costs and more.
